1 WELCOME TO SZEGED!

IN & AROUND SZEGED

The City...

Szeged is a thriving city with lots to offer students. The city centre abounding in sights offers a wide range of cultural and leisure activities, catering to all tastes. Szeged, one of the most attractive cities in Hungary, is a good choice for any student...

Szeged is situated near the Southern border of Hungary, on the banks of the river Tisza. A large part of the town lies on the right bank, while Újszeged, a leafy residential district, lies on the left bank of the river. Szeged is the cultural and economic hub of South Eastern Hungary, and a thriving university town famous for its open-air theatre. The city centre is marked by the medieval Tower of St. Demetrius and the stately twin spires of the Roman Catholic Cathedral (Dóm). This cathedral was built in the first decades of the 20th century to commemorate the rebirth of the city after the devastating flood of the Tisza in 1879.

By Hungarian standards, Szeged is a large city with its population of 180,000. The climate is highly favourable. The mean temperature is 11°C (52° F), somewhat higher than in the rest of the country. Szeged is sometimes called the City of Sunshine as it enjoys an average of 2,000 hours of sunshine annually.

The region around Szeged has been inhabited since Roman times. During the period of the Great Migration from the fifth to the ninth centuries, it was a meeting place for various tribes. The region is therefore abundant in valuable archaeological sites.

The settlement was given the rank of a free royal town in 1241; it was an important monastic centre in the Late Middle Ages; during the 16th and 17th Centuries it was occupied by the Turks and served as an administrative centre.

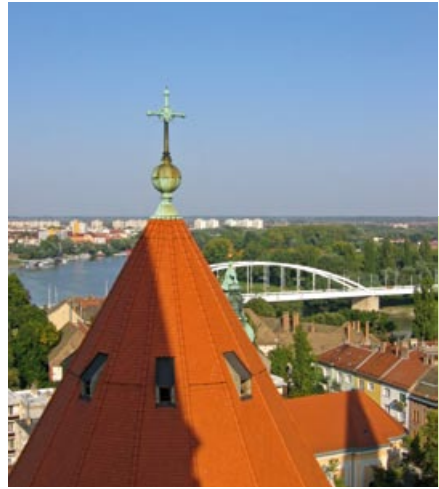

The great flood of 1879, mentioned earlier, turned out to be a blessing in disguise. The reconstruction that followed – through the help of Vienna, Paris, London, and other European cities – created a modern city with an exemplary layout of avenues and boulevards and a strikingly homogenous architecture that preserves the Eclectic and Art Nouveau styles from the turn of the century.

Szeged is the economic centre of the region and is famous for food processing, especially salami and paprika. Textiles, clothing and natural gas are also significant, but the city is most famous for its culture, including its university.

In spite of the fact that Szeged has the atmosphere of a quiet college town, the city is surprisingly cosmopolitan. The local opera is second in reputation only to the one in Budapest. Theatres, cinemas, clubs, the riverbanks, parks, swimming pools and sports grounds provide a variety of venues for recreation.

Szeged – the festival city

Szeged is known for the numerous festivals it holds throughout the year which attract hundreds of thousands of visitors.

Szeged paprika

If you are in Szeged, you should not miss the opportunity to visit the Pick Salami and Szeged Paprika Museum or the Röszke Paprika Park where you can get acquainted with the tradition of paprika growing and processing in and around Szeged dating back hundreds of years.

and the surrounding area of Szeged, the Southern Great Plain...

The Southern Great Plain encompasses three administrative areas: the counties of Bács-Kiskun, Békés and Csongrád. The region lies in the heart of the Carpathian Basin; in the town of Szarvas there is even a monument which marks its exact geographical centre. The region is famous for its national parks (e.g. Kiskunság, Körös-Maros) as well as for its thermal baths. Cultural events are held throughout the year: among the many offerings are the Gyula Castle Tournament and the Famous Festival in Kecskemét.

Walks and excursions around Szeged

■ An approximately 30-minute bus journey takes you to Ópusztaszer, one of the most popular historical sites of the region. The area was first mentioned by the 13th-century chronicler, Anonymus, in his Gesta Hungarorum as the venue of the first National Assembly of the chiefs of the conquering Magyar tribes led by Prince Árpád. The Ópusztaszer National Historical Memorial Park is home of the monumental-sized Feszty Panorama illustrating the victorious charge of the Magyar tribes through the Verecke Pass into the Carpathian Basin more than 1100 years ago. The other main attraction of the Park is the Open-air Ethnographical Museum including 19 building complexes and 3 open-air exhibitions. (www.opusztaszer.hu)

■ Visit wineries around Szeged and enjoy local wines! The Tisza unites the four districts of the Csongrád wine region: the Csongrád, Kistelek, Pusztamérges and Mórahalom–Ásotthalom growth areas. Natural conditions of the territory include sandy soil and a continental climate with little rainfall and lots of sunshine. Typical white wines include Olaszrizling, Rajnai Rizling, Chardonnay and Muscat Ottonel while characteristic reds of the area are Kékfrankos, Zweigelt, Kövidinka, Kadarka.

■ The beautiful White Lake located between Szeged and Sándorfalva is an internationally protected landscape area under the Convention on Wetlands of International Importance. The White Lake Bird Reserve can be visited by permission only, however, the lookout tower standing at the edge of the area is open to everyone.

■ By bus you can easily access some of the minor towns of the region such as Makó famous for its onions, Kalocsa well known for its special type of embroidery and paprika, Mezőhegyes, where you can find a beautiful stud farm founded at the time of the Austrian-Hungarian Monarchy, Kiskunhalas famous for its Lace Museum or Hajós, where you can find a unique row of wine cellars...

■ Just an hour from Szeged are attractions such as the Kiskunság National Park with lovely farms, csárda-inns and stables or the Bugac Plain where traditional methods of raising cattle have been preserved up to this day...

■ You should not miss visiting Kecskemét marked by the Cifrapalota (Ornamented Palace), a unique piece of architecture, known as the masterpiece of Art Nouveau with its wonderful "waving" walls, shining roof tiles and ceramic ornaments of plants and animals. The palace houses the Kecskemét Art Gallery.

■ Spend an unforgettable day in Gyula famous for its medieval castle and excellent thermal bath or visit Békéscsaba, where Hungary's biggest

Lutheran church can be found. At the popular Békéscsaba Sausage Festival, which takes place in late October, you can taste the traditional "Csabai" sausage. (www.kolbaszfesztival.eu)

The average cost of living in Szeged, including room and board amounts to 80-100.000 HUF per month depending on the type of accommodation you choose. Canteens

University canteens (menza) offer meals at very reasonable prices. In fact, it might be more affordable to eat there than to cook a meal at home. Students of the University of Szeged usually go to the SZOTE Canteen (Simmelweis u. 4.) or drop into the nearby Irinyi Canteen (Boldogasszony sgt. 4.). Some restaurants like Restaurant Gödör (Tisza Lajos krt. 103.), Restaurant Fesztivál (Dóm tér 1-4.), the self-service restaurant located on the ground floor of Szeged Nagyáruház (Jókai u. 1.) or Boci Tejvó (milk bar) (Zrínyi u. 2.) also offer dishes at rather favourable prices.

Traditional Hungarian cuisine

Traditional Hungarian food is often spicy since hot paprika, which gives a unique taste and a fiery colour to our dishes, is commonly used. Other essential ingredients accounting for a special flavour are sweet paprika, ground black and white pepper, onion, garlic, sour cream, cottage cheese (sometimes sweetened), smoked bacon and a variety of herbs. Though most authentic Hungarian dishes require lard, nowadays most restaurants and housewives use vegetable oil instead of pork fat.

Some must-try Hungarian specialties are halászlé (fisherman's soup), "Jókai" bablevés (Jókai bean soup), Újházi tyúkhúsleves ("Újházi" chicken broth), pörkölt (a ragout made from pork, beef, mutton or chicken with onions and paprika powder), paprikás (made in the same way as pörkölt but sour cream is mixed in the paprika and onion sauce), nokedli (small dumplings), goulash (a soup of thick consistency eaten as a main dish), túrógombóc (cottage cheese dumplings), szilvágombóc (plum dumplings), palacsinta (pancake either with sweet filling e.g. sugared cottage cheese, jam, sugared cocoa or cinnamon powder or stuffed with meat "Hortobágyi" pancake), rétes (strudel with various fillings e.g. cottage cheese, apple, poppy-seed and sour cherry) and Somlói galuska (sponge dumplings with chocolate sauce, rum and whipped cream) etc.

To savour the culinary delights of Hungary drop in one of the traditional fisherman's restaurants (halászcserda) of Szeged.

Once in a semester, the staff of the International Relations Centre organizes a gastroparty (e.g. outdoor "Paprika Potato" Party, "Csárda" Party) for the Erasmus students to get them better acquainted with the traditional Hungarian cuisine.

5 ACADEMIC INFORMATION

The University of Szeged – more than 400 years of tradition

The adventurous history of the University of Szeged dates back to 1581 when István Báthory, King of Poland, Grand Duke of Lithuania and Prince of Transylvania issued a deed of foundation in order to establish a Jesuit university (academia) in Kolozsvár (present day Cluj-Napoca, Romania).

Though the academia ceased to function due to religious turmoil in the country, Jesuit education soon resumed in Kolozsvár. In the second half of the 18th century the institution was reorganized and given the name universitas by Maria Theresia, Queen of Hungary. The legal successor of the universitas, the Hungarian Royal University of Kolozsvár, was established in 1872. At the end of World War I Hungary ceded Transylvania to Romania, and the university was moved to Szeged in 1921.

From the beginning, the city of Szeged was devoted to turning the town into a comfortable home for higher education. One of the outstanding professors working at the University in the inter-war period was Nobel Prize winner Albert Szent-Györgyi, who was the first to isolate Vitamin C, extracting it from Szeged paprika. After World War II, the University of Szeged was the first in Hungary to resume functioning.

In 1951, the Medical Faculty became an independent institution. In 1962, the former university took the name of the great Hungarian poet, Attila József, who had been a student here in the 1920s.

In 1991, the leaders of the higher education institutions in Szeged signed an agreement to merge into a large, unified research and education centre. On 1 January 2000, this newly formed University of Szeged was founded as the legal successor to the Szent-Györgyi Albert Medical University, József Attila University and Juhász Gyula Teachers Training College.

levels. Besides language courses, our Erasmus students can also choose from among a variety of courses announced as “Erasmus Studies” providing a glimpse into Hungarian culture. For further information visit the homepage of the IRC.

Student card

You will receive your student card soon after your registration at the relevant faculty of the university. (You will be informed about further details during the Orientation Week.)

The student card entitles students to numerous discounts at several local shops, to cheaper fares in certain taxis and 50% discount on trains and coaches. Season tickets are valid with student cards only.

Registering for Courses

The University of Szeged has an electronic system called ETR (Egységes Tanulmányi Rendszer = Unified Studies System) through which our students can register for courses. In general, through the ETR our students can access the entire course catalogue, correspond with their teachers and other university students, learn their exam results and obtain information on their scholarship and finances.

After having discussed with the relevant departmental coordinators which courses to take and – if necessary – having modified the preliminary Learning Agreement, our Admission Offices will register the required courses for you in our online system.

Textbooks, books, course notes

The textbooks, books and course notes you will need during your studies in Szeged can be borrowed from the University Library or bought in the University Book Shop located in the Atrium of the József Attila Study and Information Centre. Prices range from 500-2000 HUF in the case of course notes and from 1500-8000 HUF in the case of course books. Medical textbooks are the most expensive, in general they cost 5000-30.000 HUF.

You can access some of the books, handbooks, journals, dictionaries etc. electronically by visiting the home page of the Library (click on the link E-resources). The University's Electronic Collection of Course Notes (ejegyzet.bibl.u-szeged.hu/) includes course materials in pdf format (mainly in Hungarian but also in foreign languages).

If you get registered for any of the Hungarian language courses offered within the framework of the "Erasmus Studies" you will be provided with free course books under the auspices of the LLP Erasmus Programme.

Assessment/Examination

All Erasmus students are required to take the examinations associated with the courses attended. At seminars students are expected to hand in shorter essays related to a given topic, give presentations and write tests. For lectures oral or written final exams take place during the exam period (either from the middle of December to the end of January or from the middle of May to the end of June).

The grading system used by our university, as well as by other higher education institutions in Hungary is as follows:

Local credits

One local credit is equal to 30 hours of student workload and 30 credits measure the workload of a full-time student during one semester, thus,

1 Hungarian credit corresponds to 1 ECTS credit.

Local grading scale – indicators of quality of performance

5 jeles excellent, very good

Outstanding with minor errors.

4 jó good

Generally sound work with a number of notable errors.

3 közepes satisfactory

Fair but with significant shortcomings.

2 elégséges pass

Performance meets the minimum criteria.

1 elégtelen fail

Further work is required.

For further information on our grading scheme please visit our Erasmus home page: www.u-szeged.hu/erasmus (Please click on the link "Grading system")

All Erasmus students will be issued a Transcript of Records at the end of their studies at the University of Szeged. Your transcript containing the appropriate credits and the grades awarded by each subject's professor, will be sent to your home institution.
